The policy of flexible changes in the Lufthansa Group tickets

Due to the significant number of cancelled flights and new restrictions on travelling introduced by the governments of various countries, Lufthansa created a new policy of changes in the tickets. All passengers who bought tickets no later than on 19.04.2020, but did not take the trip or have tickets for flights further in the future, can modify them without additional costs until 31.08.2020. Also, they may receive a bonus in the amount of 50 euros!

Said policy concerns people whose flights have been cancelled, as well as those who cancelled flights on their own after 20.03.2020.

Change or refund?

Lufthansa Group airlines allow making changes in the ticket (rescheduling for another date or choosing a new destination), as well as getting a refund for the unused tickets. However, the carrier points out that in the current situation the refunds requested by the passengers will be processed at a later time. The Lufthansa Group did not specify the possible dates of when the refunds will happen.

Attention! Remember that the possibility to get a refund always depends on the airline policy, selected tariff and the circumstances. In case the flight you will not show up for will take place according to schedule, the request for a refund might be rejected by the airline.

What does Lufthansa give?

Lufthansa Group allows change of:

- the date of the travel (for departure no later than on 31.12.2020),
- the route of the travel.

Additionally, the airline gives a 50 euro bonus that will cover the difference in the price of the tickets or, if the new ticket is cheaper than the one initially bought, the difference up to 50 euros will be returned to the passenger's bank account.

There is also a possibility to reschedule the travel for a time between 01.01.2021 and 30.04.2021, however, in this situation, the passenger is not entitled to the 50 euro bonus

Lufthansa Group gives you until 31.08.2020 to make a decision whether you want to use the new policy.

Remember! The bonus applies to each passenger in the booking, not to the whole booking. For example, if the booking for a flight from Warsaw to New York consists of tickets for two people, each one of them will get the 50 euro bonus.

Attention! When it comes to domestic flights in Germany, the travel route can be changed only to another domestic flight (there is no possibility to change to international flight). In case you have an international ticket, you can't change it to a domestic flight in Germany.

How does it look in practice?

How does using the 50 euro bonus look in practice:

- If the cost of the new ticket is higher than the one initially bought by more than 50 euros: the passenger will pay the difference reduced by 50 euros.
- If the cost of the new ticket is higher than the one initially bought by less than 50 euros: the passenger doesn't have to pay anything, the difference will be covered by the bonus, and the unused bonus funds will be returned to passenger's bank account.
- If the cost of the new ticket is lower than the one initially bought by less than 50 euros: the bonus equivalent will be transferred to the passenger's bank account.
- If the cost of the new ticket is lower than the one initially bought by more than 50 euros: the bonus equivalent will be transferred to the passenger's bank account, the remaining difference in price will not be paid out.
- If the price of the new ticket and the one initially bought is the same: the bonus equivalent will be transferred to the passenger's bank account.
- If the price of the new ticket and the one initially bought is lower than 50 euros: the passenger is not entitled to the bonus.
- if the passenger decides to change the travel date for a later time (between 01.01.2021 and 30.04.2021), the passenger is not entitled to the 50 euro bonus.

Attention! The cost of the ticket does not include taxes and airport charges.
